

Cabin Fever

cab·in fe·ver

noun

INFORMAL•NORTH AMERICAN

1. irritability, listlessness, and similar symptoms resulting from long confinement or isolation indoors during the winter

The only cure for cabin fever that we know of is to start making summer plans now! Links below to sign up for kids' Summer Day Camp, as well as Youth and Adult Learn to Sail courses. Take two and call us Monday morning.

Feel better

Program Registration is open and you get early access!

A few things to know:

- We are opening up access to our newsletter list super early, so our payment portal is still under construction. We will contact you for payment shortly, but want you to be able to register for the classes and dates you want, and you can do that!
- If you become a member, you will get 20% off camp and sailing courses
- Our Financial Aid application is in the right-hand menu on programs pages
- More adventures will be added over the next couple weeks

Reminiscent of old-fashioned coastal New England sailing camps, Sailing and Science Day Camp is any kid's ideal summer home away from home. Long summer days of adventures on the Bay with friends for kids 6 and up. Monday through Friday, 9am to 4pm for 10 full weeks, days will be filled with progressive sailing instruction, racing, rigging, rowing, hands-on aquaculture education, science projects, and plenty of nature and wildlife discovery.

With our commitment to affordability, 9am-4pm days, and enough outdoor adventure to make your kids forget their phones, this could be your answer to "What shall we do with the kids this summer?"
